

Hermes Research Society

The Hermes Research Society does not pursue lucrative goals and has as its main objective to encourage and promote social, cultural and educational activities around a holistic concept of nature and transpersonal development of man and society.

For this purpose, the Society seeks to establish new relationships between spiritualities, knowledges, philosophies and arts, both old and modern, making use of a model that incorporates jointly the universe, nature and the individual.

To achieve these objectives, the Hermes research Society uses the most varied means of research, study, dissemination and communication.
